Are you ready to make a meaningful impact in Cardio-Renal-Metabolic care? As a Medical Science Liaison at Novartis, you ' ll be at the forefront of scientific engagement—collaborating with healthcare professionals and stakeholders to co-create value and improve patient outcomes. This role offers the opportunity to shape medical strategies, support clinical development, and drive innovation in disease awareness and evidence-based decision-making. Join a team that ' s passionate about transforming lives through science and be part of a mission that truly matters.

About the Role

Key Responsibilities

- Identify and map external stakeholders across cardio-renal-metabolic therapeutic areas.
- Expand engagement beyond healthcare professionals using tailored strategies and channels.
- Collect and analyze medical insights to inform strategic decisions and product planning.
- Support clinical development projects and identify data generation opportunities.
- Drive disease awareness and deliver evidence to enable informed stakeholder decisions.
- Embrace digital tools and omnichannel engagement for impactful communication.
- Contribute to patient journey mapping and integrated medical strategy development.
- Deliver medical training to cross-functional teams during onboarding and key meetings.

Essential Requirements

- Advanced degree (MD, MSc, PhD, or PostDoc) in medical, pharmaceutical, biological, or health/life sciences.
- Fluency in Romanian and English, both written and spoken.
- Minimum 6 months experience in healthcare, health authority, NGO, or pharmaceutical medical role.
- Strong communication skills to engage diverse stakeholders effectively.
- Proven ability to manage and build stakeholder relationships.
- Understanding of clinical development and evidence generation.
- Familiarity with digital tools and omnichannel engagement strategies.
- Ability to work cross-functionally and support internal training initiatives.

Desirable Requirements

- Experience in cardio therapeutic areas
