摘要

The End - to - End Planning Manager drives network supply, optimizes inventory, and ensures demand completeness, accuracy, and stability within the tactical (0 - 3 years) and strategic (3 - 10 years) horizon for finished product through strategic raw materials. E2E Planners play a key role in end to end supply chain performance through demand management and have a significant impact on asset optimization/cost absorption of NTO sites and overall inventory levels. E2E Planners enable decision making process, prioritization and process adherence in the Technology Platform sites, and through this has direct influence on the availability of our medicine to our patients. High immediate impact; risk of stock outs if not performed correctly upon global supply chain.

This is a highly visible position that will require strategic thinking, communication, negotiation and influence abilities, presentation skills, and knowledge of the business.

This role is limited for 1 year. After one year the contract will be extended to permanent.
