摘要

The Publications & Content Manager is accountable for the high quality execution and management of therapeutic-area-aligned publication plans and scientific content programs.

About the Role

The role focuses on developing globally applicable, compliant scientific content aligned to the Scientific Communications Platform (SCP), ensuring adherence to internal standards and external regulations such as Global Publication Practice (GPP).

Key aspects of the role

- Own and deliver publication plans and foundational scientific content aligned with portfolio and therapeutic strategy

- Ensure compliance, quality, and timeliness of global publications and content deliverables
- Partner closely with Portfolio Scientific Communications and cross functional stakeholders
- Manage complex, matrixed stakeholder environments with strong project management discipline
- Drive innovation and adoption of digital and AI enabled approaches in content development
- Success measured by faultless, on time delivery, continuous improvement, and adoption of new technologies

Why Novartis: Helping people with disease and their families takes more than innovative science. It takes a community of smart, passionate people like you.
