About the Role

#LI-Hybrid

Location: Mexico City, Mexico

Key Responsibilities:

- Manage allocation of production orders across multiple production sites considering capacity, lead times, flight schedules, logistics routes, and country-specific regulatory requirements.
- Develop optimal distribution strategy with proactive planning and appropriate lead-time to ensure compliance and continuity of RLT supplies, emphasizing customer needs, data integrity, and accuracy.
- Maintain close collaboration with country-level stakeholders, global supply chain teams, RLT Control Tower, order management teams, and manufacturing site teams to develop processes for optimal distribution.
- Identify, assess, and proactively communicate distribution risks; elaborate contingency plans and mitigation strategies to ensure continuity.
- Work with suppliers on routing plans to improve performance metrics, including on-time performance, customer satisfaction, and cost reduction.
- Lead action plans to achieve delivery performance targets and drive continuous improvement.
- Develop cross-functional processes to improve logistics operations.
- Responsible for quality events, incident investigations, CAPA implementation, qualifications and validations, SOP implementation, change control management, and risk assessments related to logistics processes.
- Coordinate with Production and Quality departments to ensure relevant activities are completed in line with production needs.
- Ensure compliance with GMP, regulatory, and quality requirements within area of responsibility.

Main Requirements:

- Master 's degree in engineering or administrative field
- Minimum 5 years of planning experience, preferably in radiopharmaceutical logistics
- Proven expertise in B2C logistics and timely delivery operations
- Fluent in written and spoken English
- Strong proficiency in planning software tools and document management systems
- Deep understanding of GMP, regulatory, and quality compliance standards
- Demonstrated experience in supplier qualification, CAPA, and risk assessments
- Excellent collaboration skills with global and country-level stakeholders
