The Novartis Corporate Business & Development team is seeking a new Senior Manager, M&A Transactions who will be fully responsible and accountable for end-to-end execution of small (<$200 million MAL value) scale acquisitions and divestments at Novartis and supporting more senior M&A Transaction leads on larger scale deals. The Senior Manager M&A Transactions plays a key role in the assessment and execution of acquisition opportunities at Novartis to secure external innovation and drive Novartis future revenue growth through leading cross-functional teams to inform material capital allocation decisions.

About the Role

Key Responsibilities:

- Deal strategy and execution
  - Once an opportunity has been identified and triage is completed by S&E (Search & Evaluation), the Senior Manager M&A Transactions will outline a deal strategy (game plan), including a timeline to signing, governance planning, gating diligence items, bidding strategy, and an engagement plan with the target company.
  - Shape and secure non-binding offer and ultimately binding offer terms in collaboration with M&A Finance, DD (Due Diligence), M&A Legal, M&A Tax, and other relevant line functions within Biomedical Research (BR), Development, TAS, US and International as needed.
  - Build and manage high-performing teams on a deal-by-deal basis, ensuring appropriate level of seniority and cross-functional representation to enable consistently high-quality decision-making at the Executive Committee Novartis (ECN) and Board of Directors (BoD) level.
- Risk and value assessment
  - In collaboration with DD head, launch and govern a VDR (Virtual Data Room) based diligence, ensuring target company is disclosing all relevant information and Novartis internal experts are reviewing all relevant information.
  - Coordinate relevant business case inputs and ensure appropriate review from relevant TAL (Therapy Area Leadership) members and ECN members.
  - Incorporate findings from diligence into the risk and value assessment and solicit support from third parties in the diligence process as needed to inform the assessment and recommendation.
- Review and negotiation of definitive documentation
  - Primary counterpart to M&A legal to solicit business input on transaction documents.
  - Soliciting input across functions and ensuring transaction documents secure Novartis interests while balancing risk and reward for the partner.
- Governance orchestration
  - Prepare decision-making framework for ECN DC and BoD, ensuring consistent approach to risk and value assessment of an opportunity.
  - Choreograph compressed / ad-hoc governance calendars to secure approvals in competitive processes and maintain pre-read hygiene.
  - Integrate PSB, R&D LT, and Commercial Review session outputs into ECN DC and BoD materials.
- Approval-to-closing diligence process
  - Review of all new information shared by the counterparty or as it relates to the target asset(s) profile from approval until signing and again from signing until closing.
  - Ensure all new information is adequately reviewed by relevant line functions with escalation to C&BD management and relevant ECN members as appropriate.
  - Key partner to integration function post-signing to ensure knowledge transfer and strategic value drivers of the deal are prioritized in the integration planning process.

A Senior Manager M&A Transactions is a key contributor to supporting portfolio-shaping transactions, ensuring compliance and risk mitigation, orchestrating cross-functional execution, and enabling organizational readiness for integration or separation.

Essential Requirements:

- 2+ years ' experience in leading end-to-end M&A deals across a variety of deal types, including acquisitions, divestments, joint ventures, licensing, and partnerships across multiple geographies.
- Thorough understanding of corporate strategy with ability to align deals with enterprise growth objectives and portfolio priorities.
- Strong financial background with a solid understanding of financial modelling, scenario planning and synergy assessment.
- Skilled in identifying and mitigating strategic, financial and operational risks.
- Understanding of legal frameworks for licensing and acquisition deals, and a thorough understanding of antitrust and regulatory processes as it relates to document creation and competition law.
- Ability to lead cross-functional teams with influence and drive large multi-disciplinary teams to achieve common objectives and goal.
- Ability to work under pressure and tight timelines while maintaining a collaborative spirit and high communication skills.
- Education: Bachelor's degree required, ideally with a business, finance, or life-science focus. Master's degree or equivalent preferable.
