Location: Basel, Switzerland

Relocation Support: This role is based in Basel, Switzerland. Novartis is unable to offer relocation support: please only apply if accessible.

What if you could shape how Novartis is understood, trusted and discovered by stakeholders around the world? As Executive Director, Global Corporate Communications Strategy & Enablement, you will help set the strategic direction for global Corporate Communications, turning enterprise and reputation priorities into focused, measurable action. You will also lead a team of experts to enable all communications teams across Novartis, from corporate to commercial, activating editorial strategy and planning, Generative Engine Optimization and measurement, harnessing artificial intelligence and real-time insights to strengthen our corporate reputation and drive meaningful stakeholder and business impact.

About the Role

Key Responsibilities

- Shape and execute the global Corporate Communications strategy, translating enterprise priorities into focused, measurable communications plans.
- Lead integrated editorial planning across all communications teams to deliver consistent, compelling narratives across corporate channels and priority audiences.
- Advance Generative Engine Optimization to strengthen how Novartis content appears in artificial intelligence-driven discovery environments.
- Build a data-driven approach to reputation measurement, connecting communications performance with stakeholder and business impact.
- Use real-time insights and emerging trends to inform communications priorities, decisions and resource allocation.
- Partner across Corporate Affairs and the wider organization to align communications strategies with enterprise priorities.
- Establish clear frameworks, tools and ways of working that strengthen communications effectiveness and operational excellence.
- Identify opportunities to innovate through artificial intelligence, technology, data and evolving digital capabilities.
- Provide strategic counsel to senior stakeholders, bringing external perspectives and insights to complex communications opportunities.
- Lead, develop and inspire the Communications Strategy & Enablement team, building capability, collaboration and high performance.

Essential Requirements

- Bachelor ' s degree in communications, journalism, business, marketing, public affairs, political science or a related field.
- Significant senior-level experience across corporate communications, corporate affairs, strategy, reputation management, public affairs or related fields.
- Proven experience leading teams, developing and implementing communications strategies within complex, matrixed, global organizations.
- Strong expertise in reputation management, stakeholder engagement, corporate narrative, executive communications and integrated communications planning.
- Experience leading strategic planning, operating model design, prioritization, measurement or transformation initiatives.
- Understanding of emerging trends in artificial intelligence-driven discovery, generative search, digital reputation and stakeholder influence.
- Demonstrated ability to develop measurement frameworks and use insights to strengthen decisions, priorities and communications effectiveness.
- Strong people leadership experience, including leading multidisciplinary teams and partnering effectively with senior executives.

Desirable Requirements

- Advanced degree, such as a Master of Business Administration, master ' s in communications, public policy or a related discipline.
