Ready to help shape how evolving government requirements translate into accurate, compliant pricing decisions? As a Government Reporting Manager, you will play a key role in interpreting government legislation and translating requirements into effective methodologies, business processes, and system solutions. You will oversee critical government pricing calculations and submissions while partnering across functions to strengthen compliance, improve processes, and deliver reliable insights that support business decisions.

About the Role

Key Responsibilities

· Lead accurate, timely, and compliant pricing calculations and submissions across applicable federal and state government programs.

· Translate evolving government regulations into clear pricing methodologies, business processes, controls, and system requirements.

· Apply sound judgment and high standards of integrity when making decisions aligned with company interests and compliance requirements.

· Analyze government pricing calculations and financial impacts, translating complex information into clear, compelling insights for stakeholders.

· Partner across functions, including Compliance, Legal, Information Technology, Security, Human Resources, and field teams.

· Lead government pricing projects while adapting to changing priorities and driving standardization, simplification, automation, and continuous improvement.

Essential Requirements

· Bachelor ' s degree in Finance, Economics, Accounting, Business Administration, or a related field.

· 3+ years of relevant experience in government pricing, financial analysis, reporting, or a related function.

· Excellent analytical skills with demonstrated ability to calculate and submit accurate pricing and assess financial impact.

· Ability to clearly document and communicate complex information, business requirements, and pricing methodologies.

· Demonstrated ability to collaborate across cross-functional teams and influence stakeholders in a matrixed environment.

· Ability to manage changing priorities and multiple projects simultaneously, combined with advanced Microsoft Excel, Word, and PowerPoint skills.

· Teamwork, problem-solving, collaboration, innovation, time-management, attention-to-detail, customer focus, and an innate ability to quickly adapt and excel in an increasingly rapidly evolving environment.

Desirable Requirements

· Working knowledge of U.S. government regulations related to federal and state programs, with pharmaceutical or healthcare industry experience preferred.

· Experience with government pricing and life sciences systems such as Model N, Revitas, or SAP, with a focus on automation and process improvement.

Why Novartis?

Government pricing sits at the intersection of regulation, data, finance, and patient access, making accuracy, integrity, and sound judgment essential. In this role, you ' ll have the opportunity to turn complex regulatory requirements into reliable pricing processes, strengthen compliance, and partner across the organization to improve how critical government reporting is delivered.
